Experts question WHO's report on Covid deaths

India's birth and death registration data was not used: AIMS director

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, 6 May

Questioning the modelling methodology used by the World Health Organisation (WHO) to estimate 4.7 million deaths in India due to Covid-19 or its impact, top health experts have expressed disappointment over the global health body's 'one-size-fits-all' approach to arrive at the figure.

Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) director general Balram Bhargava, NITI Aayog member (Health) V K Paul, All India Institute of India (AIIMS) director Randeep Guleria and NTAG's Covid-19 Working Group chairman Dr N K Arora on Thursday rejected the WHO report as 'untenable and unfortunate'.

"TO APPLY ASSUMPTIONS BASED ON A SUBSET OF STATES AND ON REPORTS FROM WEBSITES AND MEDIA, AND THEN COME OUT WITH AN EXORBITANT NUMBER IS NOT TENABLE"

VINOD KUMAR PAUL
NITI Aayog member (Health)

"We have a similar system, a robust Civil Registration System (CRS). We released that report yesterday (Wednesday) and we have an actual count of deaths for 2020... the 2021 numbers will also come up," he said.

The CRS provides accurate estimates emanating from the ground, certified and validated by the district and the state administration.

"We wanted them to have used these numbers. Unfortunately, despite our emphatic writing and communication at the ministerial level, they have chosen to use the numbers that are based on modelling and assumptions," Paul said.

"Modelling is a one-size-fits-all kind of assumption and you may apply it where the systems are poor. But to apply assumptions based on a subset of states and on reports that come from websites and media, and then you come out with an exorbitant number is not tenable. We are disappointed with what WHO has done," he stated.

These kinds of assumptions used for a nation of India's size "to put us in poor light is not desirable," Paul added.

Assuring the country that the government has nothing to hide, Paul said there is still an active process by which Covid deaths are being reconciled.

"Our numbers are there and we have a robust system from the ground. We, therefore, do not accept these numbers, we reject them," he said.

Arora described the WHO report as very unfortunate. "India performed unexpectedly well in Covid-19 management. In fact, many prestigious journals in the world had predicted doom for India," he said.

Bhargava said there was no definition of Covid-19 deaths. "Even WHO did not have any definition for death... So, we looked at all the data that we had and we concluded that 95 per cent of the deaths that occurred after testing positive for Covid-19 were occurring in the first four weeks. So a 30-day cut-off was given for the definition of death," he said.

Guleria also raised objections to the WHO report.

"I'll give three broad reasons for that. One is that India has a very robust system of birth and death registration and that data is available. WHO has not used that data. The second important issue is the data that WHO used is more hearsay evidence or what has been there in the media or from unconfirmed sources. That data itself is questionable. To do modelling on that data is not correct and it's not scientifically the right, especially when you have data," he said.

Bagga arrest: Delhi-Haryana & Punjab police face-off

Delhi BJP leader Tajinder Pal Singh Bagga was arrested by Punjab police from his home, stopped in Haryana while being taken to Punjab and brought back to the national capital by Delhi police hours later, a Friday of dramatic developments that drew in the police of three states and led to a BJP-AAP slugfest.

The BJP accused Punjab police of 'abducting' its leader, who has been vocal in his criticism of Delhi chief minister Arvind Kejriwal, and accused the AAP chief of pursuing vendetta through the state police. AAP rejected the charge and said the Delhi BJP spokesperson was arrested for allegedly stoking communal tension in Punjab.

Delhi police registered a case of kidnapping based on a complaint by Bagga's father Preetpal Singh. The Punjab government, on its part, moved the Punjab and Haryana High Court against the 'detention' of its police team in Kurukshetra, Haryana. Asked why the Punjab police team was stopped, a Haryana Police official said there was information that Bagga had been 'forcibly' picked up from his residence. "We have to verify and crosscheck these things," he said.

In the high-voltage drama that followed, a Delhi Police team reached Kurukshetra and took 'custody' of 36-year-old Bagga from Punjab police. PII Zomato...

To reap the most benefit from the foundation and protect the interest of Zomato's shareholders, Goyal will not liquidate all these shares immediately "but over the next few years". For the first year, he will liquidate less than 10 percent of these ESOPs towards Zomato Future Foundation. According to the draft red herring proposal (DRHP) document, dated July 6, 2021, the number of options granted to Deepinder Goyal, for the period April 01, 2021 to the date of Red Herring Prospectus are 368,500,000. For each option exercised one equity share shall be allotted.

Axis MF...

Axis Bank is the sponsor of the fund house. Front-running, which involves dealing in stocks based on insider knowledge of a future transaction, is considered one of the most serious offences by Sebi. "We are looking at certain complaints against some of the fund managers, who have allegedly made illicit gains in the range of ₹150 to ₹200 crore," said another source, adding that the independent audit in this regard would be the key in establishing the quantum of gains made wrongfully.

Sebi is also examining the breach of code of conduct and will question more staffers of Axis MF in the coming weeks, said another person. Axis MF's average AUM jumped 32 per cent to ₹2.24 trillion for the quarter ended March 2022. This was the highest growth among the top 10 players and higher than the industry average growth of 20 per cent.

Viresh Joshi has been associated with Axis AMC since 2009 and was the chief trader and fund manager. His core responsibilities included managing arbitrage fund & derivatives trading strategies. He used to oversee Axis Arbitrage Fund, Axis Technology ETF, and Axis Consumption ETF.

Deepak Agarwal joined Axis AMC in 2015 as a research analyst, equity. He was promoted to assistant fund manager (Equity) in 2020.

Naitik said currently the average deal size that the two companies were able to bag individually was around $25 million, while the combined entity would be able to tap into the $100 million and above deals. "Moreover, a majority of verticals that both these companies have are not overlapping. The leadership team of Mindtree knows what vertical they are strong on, and ITI knows what they are strong on. There may be minor overlaps, but on the whole, it is a very excellent value proposition scheme," he said.

S N Subrahmanyam, vice chairman, Mindtree, said: "The ambition with this merger is to make one plus one five. The purpose and idea of this merger is to capture the synergies from both the companies. Within both the companies we have strategic plans up to 2026, which have been approved by the boards. The idea is to hit those targets. We also want to see if the merged entity can achieve more than that."

'Easy money led to asset price boom'

At a time when RBI is focussed on fighting inflation, do you think there is a policy trade off in tackling inflation and growth as the IMF has talked about? I agree with the governor's statement that nipping inflation in the bud is a better guarantee of sustainable medium term growth than having extra-ordinary actions that some central banks abroad are having to do. My short answer to your question is there is short-term pain for long term gain. There is no rule book on the best response to a shock from the supply side because you are crunching demand. But inflation is inflation. In a country like India, food inflation particularly is iniquitous. Easy money around the world has led to asset price boom. So we're ending up the world over with rather unequal recovery. It is a political decision, execution is technocratic.

to FDI. You are worried about taper tantrum, I suppose and risks are there. But the Fed is managing signalling so that these do not come as a surprise. If the money leaves gradually and the exchange rate depreciates, it is good for us because it helps in our competitiveness. Frankly, we should be paying much more attention to what is happening to China because our competitiveness with China is also very important.

NITI has abandoned the official poverty line that the erstwhile Planning Commission used to bring about. Recently, one paper came out from the IMF and the World Bank each. They differ drastically on abject poverty in India. Do you think it is the right time for NITI to come out with the official poverty line?

It is not for NITI to establish a poverty line in the absence of a household consumption survey. It has not been easy to do face to face surveys in these times. At some time, NSS will again conduct this survey. If the government decides that the poverty line is an important method for their purposes, NITI will do what it would focus on is what is happening time, we have engaged with Oxford University on a multi-dimensional poverty index. I have been monitoring this debate over the IMF and the World Bank papers. I think there are issues with recall rate. But the real point is as and if the government determines that the base exists for the consumption based poverty line, how should that poverty line place India's status as middle income country. That is the discussion we need.

Changing world dynamics, particularly the Russia-Ukraine war, has put a question mark over the Budget numbers for 2022-23. Will NITI be suggesting new numbers to the government?

Those numbers come from the finance ministry, our job is to provide a medium-term growth outlook and to locate India's transformation in that medium-term growth. Over the last two years, we have been forced to improvise because of two reasons—Covid-19 and the war—we now need to take stock and to see that in the changed world what does that imply for our developmental model and for integrating states in that development model.

What is a broad horizon or timeframe you are looking at to come out with this document?

I think the last such document from NITI came out in 2018. It will be too early to fix a firm timeline but I feel that this is a service that NITI needs to provide to equip India for the next year's G-20 presidency and about restoring growth in a changed global environment.

NITI has an important mandate of cooperative federalism. Over the years it seems to have been diluted a bit. Your view?

That's your perception, but I certainly have been commissioned to enlist my full force behind cooperative federalism.

How do you plan to make states play a role in major decision making process on national issues?

We will do it through the strength of our ideas. If NITI has something to say, it has the ears of the chief ministers. That attention is because any progressive chief minister knows that elections are won on economic development. The vision is that our quality of analysis will be so good that states are compelled to take us seriously.
